Agribusiness is the cornerstone of our economy and New Zealand's solid manufacturing base is centred on agribusiness; the further processing of agricultural products.

With many decades of providing financial advice to a wide range of rural clients, our Moore Markhams network has established significant expertise and strength in the agribusiness sector.

Our people know your region, what drives regional success and can offer practical accounting and financial advice to help you make the right decisions today, setting in place the right structures for future succession, and focusing on minimising the risks of this volatile industry.

With solid understanding of the rural economy, we can help you with:

- livestock valuation election advice
- budgeting and cash flows
- annual and periodic accounts preparation
- tax preparation and advice
- GST returns.

Farming

We believe in supporting our farming clients to be their best, wherever they are located. A number of our directors specialise in the sheep, beef and dairy farming industries, playing an integral part in our clients' rural advisory teams.

We understand the rugged nature of farming, the impact of the exchange rate fluctuations and compliance issues associated with the Resource Management Act.

Forestry

Our specialist team has a thorough understanding and vast experience in all areas of the forestry industry – from planting, growing, harvesting, marketing and exporting through to processing.

We have significant expertise working with support industries such as logging and transportation.

Our specialist expertise in syndicated forest partnerships as well as involvement in the formulation and application of strategy around carbon credits makes us an industry leader. Our experienced business advisors can evaluate your assets, business and trust structure, investment portfolios and look at ways to reduce tax payments.

Horticulture

Moore Markhams has specialist expertise in horticulture where it matters – in our regional offices. We understand the delicate nature of the growing season.

If you are a grower, post-harvest operator or an exporter in horticulture our practical advice ensures you maximise your returns and make the most of every crop – whether it's going off-shore or is destined for the domestic market.
